club owner in the old Eastern ass, clation in the past seven your, said Carey, "has been pointed toward a greater New England league. With eight cities, all of which with two exceptions have a population of greater than 100,000, the league this year should be a great success no only from a club owner's viewpoint but also from the nublic's. It is admitted was a burden not so much from the standpoint of numbers, as from the difficulties in arranging a set-cluit."

Owner Carey took time also to give President Dan O'Neil of the .eague a boost. "Perhaps one of the m.st p.as-ing things about the league is the good executive head it is fortunate in having." said Carey. "In the Eas'ern association, a person to take up the duties of an executive give his time and energy, was lacking and it probably is not an exaggeration to say so The Eastern is fortunate I believe in paying the position. Pitchers Get Edge on Batters by Their Early Start.

Early Start.

That the plan of McGraw and Bill Donovan to give their pitchers a week's start on the batters and make the latter work their way out of a noie has fullest expecations is very clearly shown on the exhibition scores of the past few days.

The Yanks, for instance, were so helpless before the terriffic speed of Slim Love that but one solid hit was made all afternoon at Macon.

In Dallas the Giants were beaten by Dallas because the minors had on The firing line two pretty welli-seasoned twirlers. On the other hand, the Giant experiment pitcher, Kelley, came close to pitching a nohit game even in defeat.

At Waco the Giant batters of the second team were very weak, and their skin were saved by the spectacular fielding of Davy Robertson.

It has long been a question as to the efficacy of this method of training ball clubs, and the answer is not yet in sight. Some managers maintai nthat when the batters go up against stiff pitching at the start they are inclined to lose their enthusiasm and ge gun shy. The sound of the bat against soft pitching put the spring spirit i ntheir veins and makes them ambitious to cut loose.

But McGraw and Donovan have tried it both ways and are inclined to favor the plan of giving the pitcher the start.

"It often happens, as you know", said Donovan a few weeks ago, "that 100— 282 83— 266 127— 317

"It often happens, as you know", said Donovan a few weeks ago, "that batters whale the ball all over the lot down South and suddenly find themselves at a dead stop when against the season. We are trying to obviate the major league brand at the start of that by having hem trained against the real thing and work up to a state of efficiency gradually."

McGraw agrees with Donovan in this but he goes still further and makes the rather interesting observation that good pitching in the early days of training not only helps the regular the manager to get a line on the youngsters who so often flourish like morning glories against the soft pitching, only to blow up when they tackle the laz: 1ew says that cast ewner.
